Overview:

Sponsors or consultants auditing labs on behalf of a pharmaceutical or biopharmaceutical company need strong tools for preparing and conducting audits. Careful consideration of the work that will be performed at the laboratory provides a working framework for the content of the audit.

Why should you Attend:

Auditing vendors is an essential function for quality and scientific personnel.

Training and clarification of the process necessary for good audits is important for Sponsors gathering the necessary information to qualify a vendor laboratory or to document that procedures are following standard expectations of GMP and GLP.

Areas Covered in the Session:

- Assessments during the walk-through
- Setting the timing
- Identifying potential quality issues
- Presenting findings
- Negotiating responses
